nearly two thousand years ago, they were to 'THE GREAT BATTLE. - The reader wi'l 'rush down a steep place into the sea." find in our despatches some Confederate reports in regard to the first day's fight at l'ittsburg Landing but nothing as to the second day's. It is evident from the accounts on both sides that the first day's battle went in favor of the Confederates; and surely no one, considering the immense disparity of forces, could have expected any other result. The fortunate coming up of Gen. Buell at the first day's close saved us from n terrible defeat and gave ns a victory destined to bo the most memorable in history and tradition. We are aware that we ought not to judge harsbly or to condemn confidently whilst our knowledge of facts is imperfect, and of course we can afford to overlook much in the joy and exultation of trinniph, yet we cannot, with the lights now before us, escape the conviction that there was great and inexeasable misman agement at Pittsburg Lunding, a mismanagement that was exceedingly injurious to us and camo near being fatal. Toat Beauregard was at Corinth with n force of nearly a handred thousand min was notoriou throughout the whole leugth and breadth of our country. The fact could hardly have been better known if his army had marched from New Orleans to Boston. The question then suggests itself to every mind, why it was that Gen. Grant wns several days on the southwestern bank of the Tenuesses in command of only thirty-five thousand men, within immediate striking distance of Beauregard, and unsupported by Buell. We supposo there wasn't a single man of ordinary intelligence in the nation, to whom it didnt here he was sought out and assailed by Washoccur that Beauregard would attack Grant be- ington, and, after a desperate siege of many fore Baell should come up. This was the msnifest, the self-evident pelicy of the Rebel whole army to the American commander. General, and he would have been a fool no to adopt it. We cannot understand why wisely planned and the most vigorously excone of our armies crossed the river cuted of all Washington's military operations; before being joined by the other. If and there are many features in which the pres-Beauregard had attacked Grant two days cut siege promises to resemble its illustrious before he did, as he endeavored to do and as ho was prevented from doing only by the rain, to this decisive work an overwhelming forcehe would probably have captured the whole four or five times that of the enemy-with army and everything belonging to it; and, as abundance of artiflery and a powerful co-opthe case was, Grant's command lost as prison- erating French fleet; we have probably ten ers perhaps three or four thousand men who times the number of the rebel force, and artilwere allowed to be surprised, had several lery and fleet to match. Wushington carried thousand killed and wonaded, and would have the royal stronghold by a flank movement-a been annibilated, to the deep grief and horror favorite mode of nttack with our Union gen of the whole nation, but for the almost super- erals against the rebels. Cornwallis had made human endurance of most of his troops and all his arrangements to escape with his army; tho timely appearance of Buell, whose arrival Magruder hus, doubtless, like his fellow rebel might have been delayed by any one of a commanders, done the same. But Washing-

It seems to us that the responsibility of tro mendous errors lies somewhere, a responsihility, which, even in the midst of the rejoic ings over the noblo successes of our arms, shou'd not be overlooked; but we hope that explanations may set all right. We believe, fairs that any era of the present war has ever that, if the battle of Pittsburg Lauding had been fought from the first by the combined armies of Buell and Grant, Beanregard would not merely have been driven back, as ho has been, with vast loss of men and beavy loss of artillery, but n'terly incapacitated to make another stand. This extraordinary document is another ev Idence, and a very striking one, of the determination of the Confederates to set all the laws of civilized warfare at defianco. The plan was to have President Lincoln and Gen. Scott assassinated, and Washington city fired simultaneously at all points and destroyed. Even the British, who captured Washington nearly fifty years ago, were satisfied with hurning the public property; they didn't fire the city at all points or at any points, and they perpetrated no such crime us assassination Our own armies have taken city after city and town after town, but they have turned notbing, and their gallnnt leaders would sooner perish by the assassin's knife than use it. What horror won'd be excited in the heart of the whole nation if a secret despatch of Gen. WARD -A full and punctual uttendance is reetteet, be ween Saventh and Eighth, that arrangeme ta may be made for providing garments and other articles essential tu the comfort of the wounded soldiers. More RAILROAD OUTRAGES .- The sc. undra eympath'z rs with rebellion on the line of the Nashville Railroad, whose courage is of that char acter that they perform their dirty work in the dark, look advantage of the stormy weather on Friday night to come out from their lurking places and renow their vardelian. They burned the water tank hetween the South Tennel and Fonntain Head, and also cut the telagraph wires near Mitchel ville. There were acts of mera wantennese and muliquity, as no good was done to bls thereabout, however, expressed a datermiany interest by their commission. There is a regiment of Cavalry, as we learn sta- to vi it their legal neighbors with terrible ventioned at Gallatin, and several companies of lofantry along the line. These are suffi- sign to hoist the old flag on their sacred soil o cient to protect the whole reute, but it cannot | Hancick. The sarguinary threats of the rebell be done if the remain in barracks without were hard by the patriols of the rural districts frequent charges of location. Colonel Jamas S Jackson when at Calheon with his one cavalry regiment, kept confinually scouring the countie of Honderson, Union, Christian, Hopkins, Breckioridge, & ., night and day. A squadron was bors were in earnest, and no effort was made to lere in the morring and there in the avening No portion of his c mmand was ever inactive; at one time large detachments would be sent on and at otlers mere guard; but their presence was ub quiteus, and, as a consequence, that section of the State, tha very hot-bed of seccession, was kept in comparative quiet. We want similar measures adopted on the line of our Nashville railroad, and when a rebel is caught damaging the track or the water stations or law pering with the telegraph wires, let him be dealt with in a that Cabinet.

The s'eamer Minnebaha reached here at a la'e hour leet night with two hardred and forty wounded soldiers from the field at Pittsburg They were indiscriminately selected from friends and foes and it is not yet known how mary rebels were among them. Ae yet no list has been made ont, for the singeons and all others who have them in charge are on inely exhausted and were compelled to seek repose. The wounded were all removed from the boat to the various hospitals. We were struck with their acdurances though many are frightfully mangled, not a groan escaped them, but, on the contrary, they a peared perfectly resigned. All day vesterday an immense crowd was assembled on the levee in expectation of their arrival, and many anxious inquiries for friends and relatives were made at Pittsburg Landing, was not dangerously inwhan the b.nt reached here. We regret extremely that all our offerls to procure a list were unnveiling. Col. P. J. Sullivan, of the Forty eighth Ohio; Lieut. J. T. Gruntes, company F Six h lowa; Lieut. D. R. Pegley, Forty-Eighth Ohio; and Lieut Lew. A Bulbass, company C. Twentieth Ohic; were among the wounded, but none of tham dangercusly. THE WOUNDED -Mayer Delph, on Sa'urday evening received a despetch from the medical di rector of General Grant's srmy, at Cairo, asking that preparations he made for two thousand wounded. The Committee have made prepara tions fer one thousand of General Buell's army, and if the necessity s' ould arise to make arrange ments for more, we feel confident that Lenisville will do hor whole duty in the matter. Every private residence must receive its quota, if public hospitals cannot be made ready in season.

KENTUCKIANS WOUNDED. - The Commedor Perry arrived at Evansville with some wounded soldiers from Pitti barg, among them the fellowing from our State: Second Lieu'enant L. S. Brown Twan'y sixth Kentucky, Second Lieutenant A B. S anley, Twonty :ixth Kentucky Privates-R. Wiley, Eleventh Kentucky; A. Lane, Sixth Kentucky; L. B. Jones, Sixth Kentucky; J Shack, Sixth Kentucky; Wm S. Lathrep, Third Kantncky. We are pleased to learn that their wounds are not regarded as dangerous.

DEATH OF "GOVERNOR" JOHNSTON,-Thera seems to be no doubt that George W. Johnston, the "Provisional Governor of Kentucky," was killed at the batels of Pittsburg Lunding. An officer of the Union army who knew him well saye he saw and recognized his dead body. We are informed that during the Sunday fight he servel as en aid to General Breckinrilge, but on Monday he jained the ranks as a private, and while thus engaged was shot. A REVOLVER GOING OFF. - Dennis O'Brion went into the store of Wolfe & Derringer, corner of Fifth and Market, on Salunday, and being struck with the appearance of some rev lvers in a show case, abstracted one, and want off with it. As so n it was missed Marshal Hyde and Officer Charles Junot went in search of the thief. Dennis dropped his booty in a tub of water, but it was fished out, and the culprit locked up for a
